

HERALD GAVE TRUE STATE OF BUSINESS

Special Supplement of European Edition Reassured Travelling Americans.

EXPLAINED THE SITUATION

Many London Residents and Passengers Declare Information Was That Just Desired.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE HERALD.] The HERALD's European edition publishes the following from its correspondent:—LONDON, Saturday.—Many Americans who have been in London during the week have expressed great admiration for the enterprise displayed by the European edition of the HERALD in publishing last Monday morning a special financial supplement which was devoted principally to conditions in America, and which pointed out in a number of despatches from various points in the United States and a long special cable from New York, that the country had not gone to the dogs—even if Wall street apparently had—and that on the contrary the business interests were sound and not materially affected by the bottom practically dropping out of stocks.

Quite a number of well known business men—Wall street men and those who follow the course of events closely—have taken occasion to say what they thought in regard to this effort on the part of the European edition of the HERALD to portray the real situation in America.

Reassured on Arrival. Mr. Murray Danbaum, who is well known in Wall street, said:—"The HERALD gave the situation exactly. I was in my hotel on the arrival of the Maderia at Queenstown, on Wednesday, hearing rumors of failures by the wholesale. I was reassured by getting the HERALD, which contained the financial articles above referred to. It was of great value, I should think, to all Americans on this side."

J. B. Large said:—"It was all right. It was a splendid summary of the situation. The movement in Wall street is only the result of a bear raid made while a large number of people were out of town. The business of the country is good and strong."

Colonel E. Harrison Power, the well known mining expert, said:—"It was a most complete and concise summary of the situation, and explains the conditions in America better than anything else I have seen. It satisfied inquiry, gave confidence and thoroughly demonstrated the stability of our country."

Mr. A. Saks, of Saks & Co., said:—"It was altogether fine and timely. It correctly represented the state of affairs, and showed that a belief that the condition of Wall street reflected that of the business of the country was an error. The supplement was evidence of that enterprise for which the HERALD is famous."

Presented Situation Clearly. Mr. Hunter Wykes, of Street, Wykes & Co., said:—"The information on American matters on this side has been so vague and meagre on the subject that the HERALD did a tremendous service in presenting the situation so clearly. The information it gave was most complete and satisfactory."

Mr. W. G. McAdoo, president of the New York and Jersey Railroad Company, which is constructing the tunnel under the Hudson River, said:—"The information given by the HERALD was just of the character desired by Americans resident and travelling over here, and displayed great enterprise."

Mr. F. J. Dieter, well known in Wall street, said:—"It was certainly a timely presentation of the facts and tended to reassure everybody interested."

BANK HOLIDAY NEAR.

EXCUS HAS BEGUN

Londoners Are Promised Better Weather for the Outing After a Rain Soaked July.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE HERALD.] LONDON, Saturday.—Every man, woman and child in London just now appears to be engrossed with the question what the weather will be like these next few days. Monday is August bank holiday, and every cockney, high and low, seems intent on getting outside the range of Bowbells. Beginning yesterday afternoon the railway stations presented an unusually busy appearance, and a friend I just met told me he was in a great hurry, as he had to catch a train out of town. "At such an hour you have heaps of time for that," I said. "Not so," he answered. "There will be such a crush at the station that I'll have to be there an hour before the train starts in order to make sure of a seat."

The weather prophets are doing their utmost to promote cheerfulness under the depressing conditions. They promise better weather for the holidays, which is a rather safe prediction, for it couldn't well be worse than it has been of late. During the month of July the rainfall has been nearly six inches, double the average, and at the beginning of this week a good portion of the city was flooded. The cellars of big business buildings in low lying quarters, such as the Embankment, have had several feet of water, and the basement of one newspaper office was completely washed out.

Reports from the country say it is impossible to estimate the damage done to the corn and potato crops by the heavy rains of the past fortnight.

SMOKED TO KILL MICROBES.

A Parisian Explains His Action and the Magistrate Says There Is No Law to Stop Him.

[From the European Edition of the Herald.] Not many men would have the hardihood to smoke inside an omnibus or a tram car. Most of them would, though regretfully, extinguish their lighted cigarette or cigar before entering, having a wholesome dread of the regulations issued under prefectorial authority.

There exists, however, one courageous man who insisted on finishing his smoke inside one of those cumbersome vehicles. Yesterday he appeared before the Eleventh Correctional Chamber as a consequence of his temerity.

He there stated to the presiding Magistrate, M. Morice, that he considered he had the right to smoke for hygienic purposes and in order to kill the microbes which existed in such formidable numbers in omnibuses.

As nothing to relate, he was acquitted, the judgment stating that there was no law against smoking in omnibuses and that if regulations against it existed, the Prefect had no right to make them.

PREMIER APPEALS FOR CORK FUND

Mr. Balfour Calls Upon Englishmen to Assist Work of Investigation.

HIS DICTION CRITICISED

Premier's Frequent Use of the Phrase "After All" Dubbed An Irritating Mannerism.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE HERALD.]

LONDON, Saturday.—Mr. Balfour on Thursday made, before an audience of less than fifty persons, an appeal which he hoped would reach the forty million inhabitants of Great Britain. The appeal was on behalf of the Cancer Research Fund, to which only 233 people have so far contributed, although, Mr. Balfour said, there was hardly a single person in the British Isles who, either in his own person or in the person of somebody dear to him, was not directly interested in the successful result of the investigations which the fund is intended to further. Only about half of the $500,000 which the committee required has so far been subscribed.

Mr. Balfour hoped that the future could be looked to with the knowledge of an assured financial basis, which would be the best guarantee of ultimate success. He called upon the public not to show impatience at the slow march of discovery upon a matter which had, after all, defied the greatest physicians of the world up to the present time.

The Premier's use of the phrase "after all" was, by the way, taken exception to by a commentator, who notes that Mr. Balfour has developed an irritating mannerism of speech which few parliamentary debaters escape. There was one of these a few years ago who never omitted to introduce a fresh sentence with the extraordinary "very well, then, now Mr. Speaker." Mr. Balfour hasn't got as far as that, but the times he used the words "after all" in his short speech on Thursday could not have been numbered on the fingers of both hands.

SCOURGE IN PARIS

Dr. Metchnikoff Reports Success of Experiments on Apes to Trace Disease.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE HERALD.]

PARIS, Saturday.—The Academy of Medicine was crowded this week to hear Dr. Metchnikoff describe the results of his and Dr. Roux's experiments at the Pasteur Institute in regard to the transmission in apes of the unnamable disease wherefrom M. Breux's play "Les Avariés" is based.

Dr. Metchnikoff, lengthily related the processes whereby the dread infection was inoculated into an anthropoid ape, and demonstrated how the success of the experiment will furnish practitioners with a means of combating the inroads of the scourge which exercises a decimating action equal to tuberculosis.

On account of the prevalence of the malady in Paris all the newspapers are devoting columns to Dr. Metchnikoff's discovery.

CORK JUBILANT AT ROYAL VISIT

King and Queen Land from the Victoria and Albert and Are Greeted Enthusiastically.

PROCEED TO EXHIBITION

Edward VII. Says Tour Has Deepened His Interest and Urges Better Industrial Training.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE HERALD.]

CORK, Saturday.—The firing of royal salutes and enthusiastic cheering welcomed King Edward, Queen Alexandra and the royal party on their arrival at Cork this morning, on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, from Berehaven. The port was bright with bunting, the whole town was well decorated and the streets were filled with jubilant sightseers.

The Lord Mayor and Corporation of Cork welcomed the visitors when they landed. Their Majesties drove through the decorated streets, which were lined with troops and bluejackets, to the race course, where the King presented colors to two Irish regiments.

The Catholic Bishop of Cork was invited to assist at the ceremony of blessing the colors, most of the men being Catholics, but he refused to be associated with the Protestant chaplain.

During the afternoon their Majesties visited the exhibition. The royal procession to the grounds was greeted everywhere with the same warmth as marked the previous functions during the King's tour.

Addresses were presented by several local bodies, to which the King replied, saying that his previous great interest in the welfare of Ireland had been further deepened by his present visit.

He had gained a clearer insight into the conditions of Irish life and hoped that the legislation on which Parliament was engaged would powerfully contribute to the prosperity and contentment of the Irish people. But good laws alone would not secure that end. There was need of better industrial training for the young, a keener spirit of co-operation among all classes and the creation of new and varied sources of employment for the people.

Their Majesties subsequently returned to Queenstown, where they received further addresses. The King in his farewell reply said that the people could rest assured that he had the interest of Ireland at heart, which remark elicited vociferous cheering and much waving of flags and hats.

The royal visit to Ireland was thus brought to a successful close. The King and Queen are both enchanted with the tour, which, it is admitted on all hands, has achieved more toward the settlement of the existing Irish grievances than legislation could hope to accomplish. When their Majesties re-embarked on the royal yacht for Cowes the strains of "Come Back to Erin" mingled with the salute of guns.

MOORS ATTACK FRENCH FORCE.

Tribesmen in Brisk Fight Carry Off Camels from a Convoy, and Kill Twelve Men.

ALGERS, Saturday.—A body of about five hundred Moors, of the Beraber tribe, recently attacked a French force of fifty native sharpshooters, who were guarding one hundred and fifty camels at Sidi el Jady. A brisk fight followed. The Berabers lost heavily, but they killed ten of the sharpshooters and two French corporals and carried off all the camels.

EFFECT OF RHODES' BEQUEST.

Scholarships for Americans, Says Mr. Choate, Will Do Away with Provincialism.

LONDON, Saturday.—The United States Ambassador, Mr. Joseph H. Choate, delivered the inaugural address at the University Extension summer meeting at Oxford to-day to an audience of 300 persons.

In the course of his address Mr. Choate said that the bequest of Mr. Cecil Rhodes providing scholarships for American students at Oxford would do away with the provincial spirit which still existed and establish an endless chain of intercourse and sympathy.

AMERICAN PORK MUST STILL BE CERTIFIED

German Chancellor Decides That Rules of 1891 Are Not Affected by New Meat Law.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE HERALD.]

BERLIN, Saturday.—The question arose in connection with the new meat law as to whether American pork must be accompanied by the certificate of microscopic inspection made by the specialists of the American government, according to the terms of the agreement of September 3, 1891.

Some German inspection officers have interpreted the new law as abolishing these certificates, because in any case the meat must be inspected in Germany. The Imperial Chancellor, Count von Bülow, however, has just decided that these inspection certificates must accompany American pork, ruling that the new law does not affect the agreement of 1891.

KING CHARLES ON THE BROOKLYN

Portugal's Sovereign, with His Sons, Pays Visit to American Squadron at Lisbon.

ENTERTAINED ON BOARD

Admiral Cotton Presides at Luncheon and Expresses Thanks for Cordial Reception.

LISBON, Saturday.—King Charles, in the uniform of an admiral, the Prince Royal Luis Philippe, the young Prince Don Manuel and the Premier, Senhor Ribeiro, at two o'clock to-day embarked at the naval dockyard on the Tagus for their visit to the American squadron.

They were accompanied by the dignitaries of the royal palace and the officials of the Ministry of Marine. Every honor was accorded to the royal and state barges as they moved out of the Tagus, both the American and Portuguese men of war, which were gayly dressed for the occasion, firing salutes.

As the barges neared the flagship Brooklyn the band aboard played the national anthem of Portugal. The royal personages were received at the head of the ladder by Admiral Cotton, who was surrounded by his chief of staff, the commanders of the other ships and the United States Minister, Mr. Bryan. Flies of sailors manned the gangway.

The King and his entourage made a tour of the Brooklyn. The King made a complete examination of the equipment, guns and armor of the ship, his conversation on this subject with Admiral Cotton being very interesting and cordial. The visit ended after a luncheon.

ADMIRAL COTTON'S SPEECH.

Admiral Cotton, in his remarks at the luncheon, said he desired to thank His Majesty for the honor of his visit, and that he desired to profit by the occasion to express his great appreciation of the amiability and extreme cordiality of the reception tendered to the squadron, not only by the King, but by all the people of Lisbon as well. He proposed a toast to the King, Queen and the royal family of Portugal.

KING SENDS MESSAGE TO PRESIDENT.

The King, in replying, said he congratulated himself that he had had the opportunity to visit the American squadron. The cordial manner in which he had been received put upon him a pleasant obligation—that of thanking President Roosevelt for the pleasure he felt at having made the acquaintance of Admiral Cotton. He would therefore, he declared, send a telegram to President Roosevelt, in which he would also thank him for the proof of American goodwill shown by the visit of the squadron.

The King proposed a toast to President Roosevelt, as First Magistrate of the United States, saying that to drink to President Roosevelt was to drink to the prosperity of that most powerful nation. The announcement by the King that he would send a telegram to President Roosevelt was greeted with cheers.

The cruiser Chicago sailed for New York at seven o'clock this evening.

COLOMBIA WANTS CANAL MONEY FREE

Senor Velez's Mission Said To Have Been to Learn How Payment Would Be Made.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE HERALD.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Saturday.—According to an article published in the Washington Times to-day, the mission of Senor Pedro Velez, of Colombia, who recently spent a week in this country, was to discover the manner in which the United States will pay to Colombia $10,000,000 for the Panama Canal. He wanted to find out if the money was to be so paid that it would be controlled by the clique in power in Bogota.

It is asserted that Senor Velez left convinced there would be no strings attached to the money, and that this government would not concern itself about the uses Colombia would make of the money.

Senor Velez, according to the Times, will reach Bogota within a week, make his report and join the clique in power in forcing ratification of the canal treaty.
